Documents available to public

The Navy has established Information Repositories to provide the public information about environmental cleanup taking place at Naval Air Station Memphis.

The repositories are collections of documents which chronicle the environmental cleanups and studies being done on the base. Repositories are located at the Millington Public Library and the NAS Memphis Library and may be read free of charge during regular business hours.

Contents of each of the repositories is the same and include reports developed as a result of environmental investigations conducted on the base, results of environmental sampling, etc. The repositories are located in the reference section of the libraries and are available to anyone who would like to review them. NAS Memphis welcomes comments throughout the process being followed to clean up sites at the base.

The documents in the repositories report each step of the environmental investigation and cleanup being conducted at NAS Memphis. The investigation and cleanup are being conducted in response to the realignment of the base under the Base Realignment and Closure (BRAC) Act. Environmental investigations are also being done under the Installation Restoration Program, a Navy-wide program initiated at all bases to identify past disposal sites and develop appropriate clean up actions for such sites.

For more information on the repositories contact the NAS Memphis Public Affairs Officer, Sue Hosmer, (901) 873-5761.
